Key points for action:
Physical Environment	Have I created a positive place for learning? Is furniture arranged to best effect? Is ventilation sufficient and is the temperature appropriate? Is there ease of movement in the room? Can the board etc. be easily seen? Do I display student work? Is the classroom clean and tidy?

#2 eAAA DoneAAA speculate. We need to use these tools, as the owners are now requesting we do so. AAA What is the main source of 360 virtual tour requests, the property managers or the owners? AAA This situation is mostly about rentals, what about property sales? One truly realizes that visuals are the crux in today's world. In this context, 360 did help us improve the content. AAA It's global, both. AAA How has this market evolved in recent years, and what impact has this had on your activities? We wanted to manage the entire process internally, and therefore required a solution which could provide autonomy, without it being too expensive. Products need to look "sexy", to be branded. We studied the global ad success level, as one entity. There was often a high level of frustration with the existing promotions. Because of this, we setup a training to help property managers understand the new possibilities, their features and costs involved. AAA We also conducted A/B testing on our website to help demonstrate that the property ads using these new techniques were performing much better than those without. AAA As far as the general public and property buyers are concerned, do they request AAA virtual tours when they aren't provided? AAA Have you managed to precisely demonstrate the added-value of 360 for property promotion? We have since experienced a much stronger internal demand for 360 virtual tours. I believe this is the case for most of them. AAA We haven't noticed any major AAA changes, except for an increased competition due to online platforms. Everybody realizes that 360 is useful, but the approach not always the same. Cost is an important aspect for the rental market, as our fees are much lower than those of property sales. AAA It is difficult for us measure this aspect for rentals, since AAA many visits are organised by the previous tenant, or with AAA the concierge. We decided to manage everything internally, whereas many of our competitors call upon external photographers. Find out more at www.joinaooa.org. AAA A Well, we didn't just analyse the 360, but conducted a comprehensive overview of the new property ads, which contain 360 virtual tours and a much better photography. We sent a colleague along to shoot some good photos and produce a virtual tour. They are now increasingly volatile, and don't mind moving for a slightly lower rent. Two of the most costly problems for rental property investors are unpaid rent and risk of property damage. #1 eAAA Invest in undervalued rental property on the fringes of desirable neighborhoods. These were very positive, but we depended on them. AAA Six months ago, our managers didn't hold all the cards to provide owners with the guarantee that all had been done to promote their property. This is not the case today, be it for property sale or rental. Families tend to be more responsible and take better care of the house, plus they already expect to pay higher security deposits and are actually the most likely group to become long term tenants because they have trouble finding other landlords willing to rent to them #5 eAAA Communication is key. AAA Has using 360 virtual tours had a positive impact on your brand image, are you perceived as being ahead of your competitors? 360 virtual tours must certainly reduce the number of useless visits, when for example someone realises that the kitchen is not bright enough. Negotiation skills are essential in real estate investing but instead of focusing on getting only what you want, work towards win-win solutions that let others know you have taken the time to understand their needs as well. Investing in middle to lower homes allows you to greatly increase your chance of having guaranteed profits because as the economy improves, lower class families move up to better homes and during economic downturns, uoy gnilyts ot. gnilytS emoH gniret?
